

I received an unsolicited, recorded phone call asking me to sign up for some service at a new phone # that has not been given out to anyone. I spoke to a SBC(Southwestern Bell) operator about it, and she told me that is not against the law, even though I read in the TCPA that it is. It disturbs me that a federal law can say one thing yet the people tasked with dealing with the law are not even aware of it and as such have not been amenable to dealing with the issue. I believe this law should be made more clear to the affected parties, even if it involves strengthening the fines and clarifying the language to prevent any misinterpretation of the law.
